

Endangered Species Day

At Brandywine Zoo!

Thursday, May 20 2010

10 a.m.—2 p.m.

The Brandywine Zoo is home to many species of endangered animals, come and meet some up close and in person! More importantly, find out what YOU can do to save some of these cool species from becoming extinct!

Special Fee: $2.00 per person!! (includes admission and program)

Additional Information:

- Program is held in the main zoo and will include standards-based hands-on activities, crafts, games, learning stations, live animal presentations, and more!
- You are welcome to picnic in the zoo (trash cans available) or surrounding park (you will need to bring trash bags as it's a carry in/carry out park).
- This event may be altered due to inclement weather. Please dress for the weather. There is no rain date offered.
